

[update] : Treating stretch marks with Skin Renewal

Well I'm three treatments in and I am sure you are dying to see how my stretch marks are looking... If you missed my first post where I explained each treatment I'm be having, you can give it a read over here.

After six weeks (my treatments are every two weeks), I can definitely see a difference: not only are the stretch marks starting to fade, they are shrinking as well – woohoo! The little dots that you see on my most recent image is from the needle used during Carboxy Therapy. This is completely normal and mine generally fade within 5 days or so.

To read the full article click here:

<http://mascaraandmimosas.com/index.php/2016/07/19/update-treating-stretch-marks-with-skin-renewal/>